Correlated Threat Score Explanations

Score Points Calculations	Beginner Friendly Explanations
+17 points: Baseline threat signature and structure anomalies +20 points: Malicious C2 network IP address detected +20 points: Multiple threat scanners flag hash as signature match +10 points: Threat signature matches known malware family profile +15 points: Outbound exfiltration or network callbacks triggered	Simplified Cybersecurity Concepts (Beginner Friendly) • Malicious IP Connection: The file is trying to communicate with a dangerous internet address. • MITRE T1003 (OS Credential Dumping): The file acts like a spy, harvesting your saved logins and passwords from internet browser storage.

MITRE ATT&CK; Mapping

ID	Technique	Simplified Explanation
T1003	OS Credential Dumping	This file attempts to extract and steal your saved usernames and passwords directly from your computer's memory storage.
T1041	Exfiltration Over C2 Channel	This file gathers confidential information from your computer and uploads it secretly to an external server run by threat actors.
T1562	Impair Defenses (Disable Security Tools)	This file tries to turn off Windows Defender or disable your firewalls to make it easier to run malicious activities undetected.
